

FLOYD LAPP, FAICP

Floyd Lapp, FAICP has master's and doctorate degrees from New York University and almost half a century of urban planning and transportation experience as well as a New Jersey licensed professional planner.

He has also been adjunct faculty in a variety of urban planning programs for almost 40 years; most recently Columbia University since 2003.

He has been affiliated with the Westchester County, N.Y. Planning Department, the New Jersey State Planning Office, Tri-State Regional Planning Commission, a Bronx development corporation, served with the NYC Dept. of City Planning as Bronx Office Director and Transportation Director, and Orange, N.J. Planning Director.

He has been a consultant with Alexander and Moskowitz and Sam Schwartz Engineering.

Since 2006 he has been the executive director of the Southwestern Regional Planning Agency in Fairfield, Connecticut.

He has served on the national APA and AICP boards and was twice elected N.Y Metro Chapter President.