

The ULI Northwest Young Leaders Group is pleased to announce that registration for the Fourth Annual YLG Cascadia Regional Conference is officially open!

Please join us for two days of lively discussion, exciting project and neighborhood tours, networking events, and beautiful Seattle summer weather. Our keynote speaker, Alan Ehrenhalt, author of the recently published book The Great Inversion, will share his findings and set the tone for this year's conference theme, Development Drivers in the Urban Era.

The conference will begin at Melrose Market, which boasts an adaptive reuse success story of a former auto repair shop transformed into a thriving urban market. Panel discussions will be held beneath the old growth timbers before embarking on a tour of the vibrant Capitol Hill neighborhood. Highlights of the tour will include office and residential developments and envisioning how the light rail station currently under construction will direct future development.

After a rooftop cookout on Friday evening and opportunity to attend the Mariners game, conference programming will resume on Saturday with a tour of Seattle's hottest development scene – the South Lake Union neighborhood. The conference will conclude at one of South Lake Union's hip new watering holes where attendees can relax and discuss the local food movement over frothy brews.
