

TOGETHER: The Future of New Orleans

A collaborative exploration of progress and opportunity five years Post-Katrina

Thursday, July 15, 2010 | The Westin New Orleans Canal Place

100 Rue Iberville, New Orleans, LA 70130

In the five years since Katrina, New Orleans has experienced nothing short of a social and economic renaissance. In 2009, Forbes ranked New Orleans #8 among top cities for relocation, and while challenges persist, we're at the precipice of major opportunity and change. Urban planners and real estate developers are moving boldly ahead to strengthen the foundation for growth, enhancing communities and reshaping the environments in which we live and work.

Join ULI to hear an up-to-the-minute account of some of the region's most compelling land use and development plans and initiatives, and share YOUR input as the city works to implement plans developed since Katrina.

At this one-of-a-kind forum, you will:

- Hear perspectives of how to achieve neighborhood and city goals for redevelopment;
- Prioritize Master Plan recommendations with help from notable local and national land planners and developers;
- AND, participate in round-table discussions to explore implementation strategies for smart, sustainable growth.
