

Palo Alto Medical Foundation Tour

Palo Alto Medical Foundation Sunnyvale Center, 301 Old San Francisco Road, Sunnyvale, CA
Wednesday, June 12, 2013 / 4:00 – 5:30 pm, reception to follow

Please join ULI Silicon Valley for a walking tour, panel discussion and cocktail reception at the new Palo Alto Medical Foundation site for Pediatrics.

The Palo Alto Medical Foundation site for Pediatrics is a joint venture between Sutter Health and the Palo Alto Medical Foundation which utilized integrated project delivery (IPD) in the project's development. IPD is a delivery system that seeks to align interests, objectives and practices through a team-based approach. The first working definition of IPD was established in May 2007 by the AIA California Council Integrated Project Delivery Task Force comprised of representatives of owners, architects, contractors, engineers and lawyers.

Rather than each participant focusing exclusively on their part of construction without considering the implications on the whole process, the IPD method brings all participants together early with collaborative incentives to maximize value for the owner. This collaborative approach allows informed decision making early in the project where the most value can be created. This close collaboration eliminates a great deal of waste in the design, and allows data sharing directly between the design and construction team - eliminating a large barrier to increased productivity in construction.

Please join us in learning about the history of the project as well as the unique benefits and challenges associated with this development approach from the key stakeholders involved in the project, including how technology plays a role in the IPD method. Following the panel discussion, there will be a hosted cocktail reception.
